$90 Million Expansion Program Planned at IUP Next Decade

Indiana University of Pennsylvania has announced a bold expansion program for the decade ahead. In releasing the Campus Expansion Plan recently approved by the university's Board of Trustees, Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President, stated that the long-range plans of the institution depend in large measure on the successful completion of the land acquisition to be undertaken within the next few years.

Dr. Pratt also emphasized that the proposed campus boundaries as well as a number of the development features must be considered strictly tentative. Action at the state level will be required to implement the expansion and construction projects. Pennsylvania's General Assembly will play the major role in supporting IUP's growth since each parcel of land and each construction project will require specific authorization by the legislature.

Dr. Pratt also noted the intent of the university to coordinate its expansion with government officials of Indiana Borough, White Township, and Indiana County. Every effort will be made to produce minimum inconvenience and disruption of activities for the business and residential properties concerned. At no time will the university seek to relocate a commercial or manufacturing concern until the owners have had ample opportunity to acquire nearby sites and to coordinate their own growth with that of the university.

The Campus Expansion Plan will require a $90,000,000 public investment by 1980. This is in addition to the $40,000,000 program already completed. Approximately $4,500,000, or five per cent, of this amount will be required to acquire the additional land involved. Dr. Pratt noted that the land cost represents a very reasonable portion of the total development cost as compared with the expansion conditions in some urban locations where land acquisition costs often amount to 15 per cent or more of the campus development programs.

"It is indeed fortunate for the future of the university," Dr. Pratt stated, "that some 200 acres of partially developed land lies so close to the existing campus." The key element in the expansion program is the proposed purchase of part of the Indiana County Farm. "The county home buildings," Dr. Pratt explained, "are not needed by the university, and our expansion program can be carried out with no change required in the operation of the present Indian Haven. It is the farm land with which we are concerned in the immediate future."

The county farm is now publicly owned. The purchase of the farm by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would in no way result in a loss of tax revenue to any municipality. "In fact," Dr. Pratt pointed out, "it would be difficult to imagine a more productive use of the county farm land than that envisioned in the university expansion program."

University officials have consulted with the Indiana County Commissioners and the County Planning Commission on a number of occasions and hope to be able to reach an agreement acceptable to the county and to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania whereby the university can acquire title to part of the county farm. "This is the single, most critical aspect of our expansion program," noted Dr. Pratt.

The total area within the proposed boundaries falls naturally into a North Campus division and a South Campus division. The North Campus includes all of that land now occupied by the university plus the land to be acquired from the Indiana County Redevelopment Authority as well as other small parcels of property in the borough and White Township.

Nine major public buildings are presently in the design stage and are expected to go under construction during the next 6 to 12 months. These buildings are all situated in the North Campus and include the following facilities at the estimated costs shown:

- (1) Learning Research Center, $2.2 million.
- (2) Three men's dormitories, $2.3 million each.
- (3) Maintenance Building, $500,000.
- (4) Health Center, $500,000.
- (5) Military Hall, $600,000.
- (6) Fine Arts Building, $2.5 million.
- (7) University Student Center, $1.5 million.

Dr. Pratt also stated that the university anticipates a $1.8 million dining hall and two $2.6 million women's dormitories to be approved for construction by the current session of the General Assembly. "The $90,000,000 expansion program seems less awesome," Dr. Pratt pointed out, "in view of the fact that nearly $22,000,000 worth of capital construction and an additional $3,000,000 in land acquisition and other projects will be underway or completed by 1970. This massive expansion program will produce the busiest period yet on the Indiana campus."

Also included in the North Campus plans are a second new dining hall, greenhouse, home management facilities, women's health and physical education building, a field house, four classroom buildings, several parking facilities, and a major new library.

The new library is intended as a research and instructional tool to serve a university population of 20,000 students and staff. Dr. Pratt stated that the university has set a 1,000,000 volume goal for the new library and expects to reach this mark before 1980.

"The South Campus represents our future," Dr. Pratt stated. "Without this campus, development at Indiana University would be brought to a halt in just a few years. The South Campus, however, will provide for expansion throughout the 1970's and enable the university to reach its announced goal of 15,000 full-time undergraduate students by 1980."

A new stadium is planned for the South Campus, to be so located that the county road network will provide easy access and that field parking will be available for 4,000 automobiles. The rest of the South Campus development program is envisioned as taking the form of integrated residential/instructional units.

"Several factors point toward the desirability of providing both living and instructional space in the South Campus," Dr. Pratt pointed out. "The South and North Campuses will be too widely separated to permit students to reside in one area and to attend classes or use dining halls in a different area without considerable inconvenience and much time wasted in moving from place to place."

"We are concerned," Dr. Pratt noted, "that we avoid creating an atmosphere in which students are unable to identify with student or faculty segments and become lost in the maze of one giant campus. Indiana is proud of its reputation as a student-centered institution; we intend to maintain and strengthen this reputation and to do so by carrying out our future expansion as a series of coordinated units whereby our students and staff can retain their individual identity and their importance as unique persons."

In summing up the features of the Campus Expansion Plan, Dr. Pratt emphasized that the university has not planned its future expansion simply for the sake of becoming larger or more complex. "We have a big job to do now," Dr. Pratt stated, "and one which occupies the full talents of our more than four hundred professional staff members. Even if Indiana never increased its enrollment, it would continue to be an important unit in the University Segment of the Commonwealth System of Higher Education."

The proposed expansion simply represents Indiana's contribution to the growth in higher education across the Commonwealth as projected in the Commonwealth's Master Plan and other documents. "We are a public university," Dr. Pratt noted, "and are sensitive to public needs. It is in response to an expressed desire for massive expansion in higher education that Indiana has prepared this campus development plan. Bringing this proposal from the planning to the construction stage will require the cooperation of many individuals and agencies—we earnestly solicit community support as we strive to turn ideas into buildings and dreams into reality."

University to Institute Doctorates In Philosophy and Education in 1968

Two doctoral programs, one in elementary education leading to a doctor of education degree and the other in English leading to a doctor of philosophy, were recently approved by the Board of Trustees of Indiana University of Pennsylvania, according to university President Dr. Willis E. Pratt.

At its regular spring quarterly meeting the Board approved the doctor of education in elementary education program effective July 1, 1968, and the doctor of philosophy in English program effective July 1, 1969. Preliminary planning has been completed for both programs.

While it had originally been planned to wait five to ten years before such programs were initiated at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, university officials feel that staff and materials available at Indiana are adequate at this time to offer both of these doctoral degree programs now.

Proposed departmental staffs who will be involved in the doctoral programs are considered to be exceptionally well qualified by training and experience to conduct such a program. Each faculty member has had experience in teaching at both public school as well as graduate and undergraduate levels.

The majority of the professors in both departments have also worked as research advisers in The Graduate School at Indiana and at other colleges and universities, have conducted research of their own and have graduated from many different institutions of higher learning.

Many faculty members in both the present Department of Elementary Education and the English Department hold important offices in both state and national professional organizations, and many have contributed to professional publications, exhibits and workshops in their respective fields.

Also contributing to the suitability of Indiana for offering doctoral programs, perhaps more particularly in the case of the doctor of education, is the excellent relationship which has existed for many years among public school and university personnel, each contributing to the other.

Rhodes R. Stabley Library on the university campus now houses more than 250,000 volumes, subscribes to more than 1000 periodicals and is currently increasing holdings at a rate of from 20,000 to 30,000 total volumes per year.

In the area of elementary education, there are now more than 7000 volumes on various areas of study, and it is planned that approximately $25,000 will be spent each year in the acquisition of additional elementary education materials for the library.

A vital factor in the elementary education program is expected to be the planned Learning Research Center to be constructed on the university campus at the corner of Eleventh and Maple at a cost of $2.3 million and expected to open in 1968.

This building will house the laboratory school as well as a control and production center for both open and closed circuit television, several special clinics and a learning resources center as well as university classrooms and offices.

Because of the many services to be made available and housed in a single building, this facility will become the center for research and development of educational programs for the School of Education as well as the Graduate School and a large number of public and private schools in Pennsylvania.

In the elementary education program, Indiana University plans to offer several specialized programs of advanced study leading to doctorate of education, which is a professional degree primarily designed for those who wish to become superior teachers or teacher educators.

The program will consist of the equivalent of at least three years of full academic work including formal course work, independent study and research. A dissertation and comprehensive and final oral examinations will be required of all students, with a five year limit placed on all requirements.

A one-year residence requirement, calling for one full academic year of fulltime enrollment on campus, will be mandatory. Total credits required will be 64 to 80 of work in general studies, foundations of education, research techniques, human growth and development and areas of specialization.

These areas of specialization for the moment will be in either curriculum and instruction or in elementary science with programs to be initiated in elementary mathematics, the social studies and the language arts in the near future. Each student in his general studies also elects some academic strength.

Liberal opportunity will be afforded for elective course selection, for strengthening or adding an area of general studies or major specialization or for continuing further in the study of human growth and development as related to learning.

The doctoral program in English and American literature will require a minimum of 36 credits, exclusive of the dissertation, beyond master of arts requirements. The student may in addition elect or be required to complete a 12 to 18 hour minor in course work related to the dissertation.

With a one year fulltime residence requirement in effect which may be satisfied through completion of 12 credits on campus in each of two summers, a doctoral dissertation with emphasis on high quality rather than on great length will be required.

The candidate must also successfully pass a qualifying examination, a comprehensive candidacy examination concerning comprehensive understanding of specific areas and a final oral examination as a defense of the thesis. A reading knowledge of French and German or another language will be required.

Course work will be largely drawn from the 33 different courses now being offered in master of arts and master of education degree programs which deal with various periods of English and American literature, linguistics and history of the English language and will be supplemented by others.

While fully adequate in all areas of English, the present English Department faculty is particularly strong in American literature. An effort is planned to include in course offerings certain other subjects in various aspects of literature and linguistics not now offered on the graduate level.

Two New Dorms Open This Fall To Accommodate 450 IUP Students

Two additional dormitories housing more than 450 students at Indiana University of Pennsylvania are now under construction, according to university President Dr. Willis E. Pratt. Both dormitories are being built and financed by private investors, as have been other campus dormitories.

One building, to be constructed by M. Bennett and Sons of Indiana, adjacent to the George P. Miller Stadium parking lot and the present LeRoy Hall, will house 254 women and will be ready this fall. In addition to living quarters, lounges and study areas will also be included.

Rooney Hall, to be built as an addition to the present Oakland Hall, will house 200 men. College Housing, Inc., builders of the structure, have named the building for Arthur J. Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Steelers football club who attended Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Board Approves University Foundation To Receive and Manage Gifts & Grants

At its May, 1967 meeting the I.U.P. Board of Trustees authorized the establishment of a private corporation to receive and manage gifts, grants, and service contracts for the benefit of the University. This action of the Board was taken following the presentation of a Foundation proposal by Dr. Willis E. Pratt.

In discussing the new corporation, Dr. Pratt pointed out that many state colleges and universities have found that a private Foundation offers the best means of receiving gifts and carrying out the wishes of the donor. "Prior to the establishment of the Foundation," Dr. Pratt noted, "any gift to Indiana University of Pennsylvania was legally considered a gift to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and could be accepted only with the approval of the Governor and could be used only in strict accord with our Commonwealth laws governing contracts, equipment purchases, employment procedures, and other administrative matters. The University Foundation will avoid many of these complications and will serve as a tax-exempt depository for outright gifts or bequests."

Dr. Pratt stated that the West Virginia University Foundation, Inc., summarizes its activities as follows:

What special services does the Foundation perform for the University?

The Foundation accepts gifts for scholarships; loan funds; memorials; capital expenditures; special projects jointly determined by the donor and University authorities; support of faculty or student research, study or travel; sponsoring lecturerships, short courses or seminars; support of the work of a specific department, school or college; purchase of books, subscriptions to periodicals; publishing faculty or student work, student prizes; faculty salaries; matching federal or other grants; museums; general endowment; furnishing University buildings; aiding patients in the University hospital; or for other purposes in keeping with immediate needs.

The Foundation represents the University in its approach to individuals, corporations, foundations, and governmental agencies where the University is seeking support; shares with the University the cost of the Development Office; purchases equipment where certain items may be needed at once for research or other purposes; helps the University to meet emergencies of every kind in which the immediate availability of funds is essential; supplements existing funds where additional help may be needed for the completion of a project; advances funds to personnel and departments when reimbursement from University funds is assured; and in general carries out the wishes of the Board of Governors and the President of the University to the best of its ability.

The Indiana University of Pennsylvania Foundation may, over the years, engage in all of these activities (and others as well) to the extent that they prove feasible, desirable, and acceptable to all parties concerned.

In the first year of its operation, the Foundation may be expected to have an operating budget of some $25,000 secured from non-state sources. Within five years, this operating budget may reach $250,000 and an annual budget of $1,000,000 is not unlikely when the University reaches its projected enrollment of 15,000 students in 1980.

The Alumni Association made possible the legal establishment of The University Foundation by a donation of $1,000 for this purpose at the spring meeting. At the time this donation was approved, Dr. A. F. Nicholson noted that the Annual Giving Campaign would continue unchanged and that the Alumni Association from time to time would likely make further contributions to the University Foundation. Dr. Nicholson also stated that additional information about the Foundation and its operation will be made available to all alumni during the coming academic year.

Health Education Workshop Draws 50

Approximately 50 teachers, guidance counselors, school nurses and others interested in health recently participated in a health education workshop at Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

Purpose of the workshop was to enable those interested in health to study common problems, learn educational techniques, review community health resources, promote inter-professional understanding and stimulate group action for a more effective community-school health education program.

Sponsors of the workshop, in addition to local voluntary agencies, were: The Inter-Agency Planning Committee for Health Education in Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania Department of Health, Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction, Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, American Cancer Society—Pennsylvania Division, Pennsylvania Health Council, Pennsylvania Heart Association, Pennsylvania Medical Society, and Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health Society.

Of primary concern in the workshop was the health of the school child, including his physical, mental and emotional well-being. Considered were all aspects of the School Health Program—health teaching, health services, and healthful environment.

The workshop at IUP was under the direction of Dr. John Chellman, Dean of the School of Health Services at the University. Members of the staff included Donald Bashore, Associate Professor of Psychology, Bloomsburg State College; Sylvia Bohlayer, Chief, Media Section, Division of Public Health Education, Pennsylvania Department of Health; Linda L. Chalfont, Public Health Nutritionist Trainer, Pennsylvania Department of Health; and Owen Dougherty, Associate Professor of Health and Physical Education at IUP. Dr. Daniel H. Bee, Indiana physician, served as consultant.

Health & Physical Education Program Approved by Dept. of Public Instruction

A program in Health and Physical Education at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pennsylvania, has been given approval by the Department of Public Instruction, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, University president.

The program will be offered by two new departments of the recently-created School of Health Services at the University—the Department of Physical Education for Men and the Department of Physical Education for Women.

Students who enroll in the program and satisfactorily complete the requirements will be granted the degree of Bachelor of Science in Health Education and will qualify for a Pennsylvania Provisional College Certificate, which will be valid for teaching health and physical education in any of the grades of the public schools of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Heading the two new departments will be Dr. Johnny J. Miller in the department of health and physical education for men, and Mrs. C. Elizabeth McCauliff in the department of health and physical education for women.

Dr. Miller has had considerable experience in the teaching of health and physical education including work at both the high school and university levels. Included in the latter was seven years at Emory University in Atlanta, where he served as assistant professor of physical education.

He was also visiting professor of physical education and health at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches, Louisiana, and professorial lecturer at the George Washington University and the American University.

Mrs. McCauliff, who expects to complete her work for the doctor's degree during the coming year, has also had considerable experience in the field, also at both the secondary school and college levels.

Included in her work at the college level was an instructorship in physical education at Grinnell College, Iowa, and Hartford College for Women, Hartford, Connecticut. She has most recently been a doctoral research fellow at Springfield College in Massachusetts.

According to Dr. John Chellman, Dean of the School of Health Services, the two programs are to be initiated in September, 1968.

In addition to preparing teachers of health and physical education, the two new departments will develop and conduct a required program of physical education for all students enrolled at the University, provide an intramural program for students, and provide informal play opportunities, clinics, and sports clubs for students, faculty, staff, and other University personnel.

The professional program of physical education is also designed to prepare students for careers, not only in the teaching of health and physical education, but in the related health professions as well. These will include programs in occupational therapy, physical therapy, medical technology, and nursing.

English Department Faculty Member Retires After 11 Years Service

Mrs. Fairy H. Clutter, a member of the English Department faculty at Indiana University of Pennsylvania since 1956, recently retired from the university faculty effective August 31, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President.

Mrs. Clutter has become well known throughout the Indiana area over the past 11 years for her numerous dramatic readings presented as entertainment before local civic organizations and for her several stage dramatic appearances, notably with the campus Summer Theater Guild.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa national honorary intellectual achievement fraternity, Mrs. Clutter graduated from West Virginia University with a bachelor of arts degree in speech arts and earned a master of arts degree in English at the University of Pittsburgh.

In addition to completing additional graduate work in summer sessions at both the University of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania State University, Mrs. Clutter has found time to travel to a total of 11 countries in Europe as well as Canada and Mexico.

She is a member of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), the National Council of Teachers of English and the Pennsylvania Council of Teachers of English.

At the present time Mrs. Clutter is residing at 145 Wood Valley Lane, Athens, Georgia.

Gov. Shafer Addresses August Grads: 270 Awarded Degrees at Exercises

Governor Raymond P. Shafer was the speaker at summer commencement exercises held at Indiana University of Pennsylvania Sunday, August 20, 1967.

Two hundred seventy IUP students were awarded various degrees at the exercise, including 180 who received bachelor's degrees and 90 who received master's degrees. In addition five graduates were commissioned second lieutenants in the United States Army or United States Army Reserve.

The degrees were presented by Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

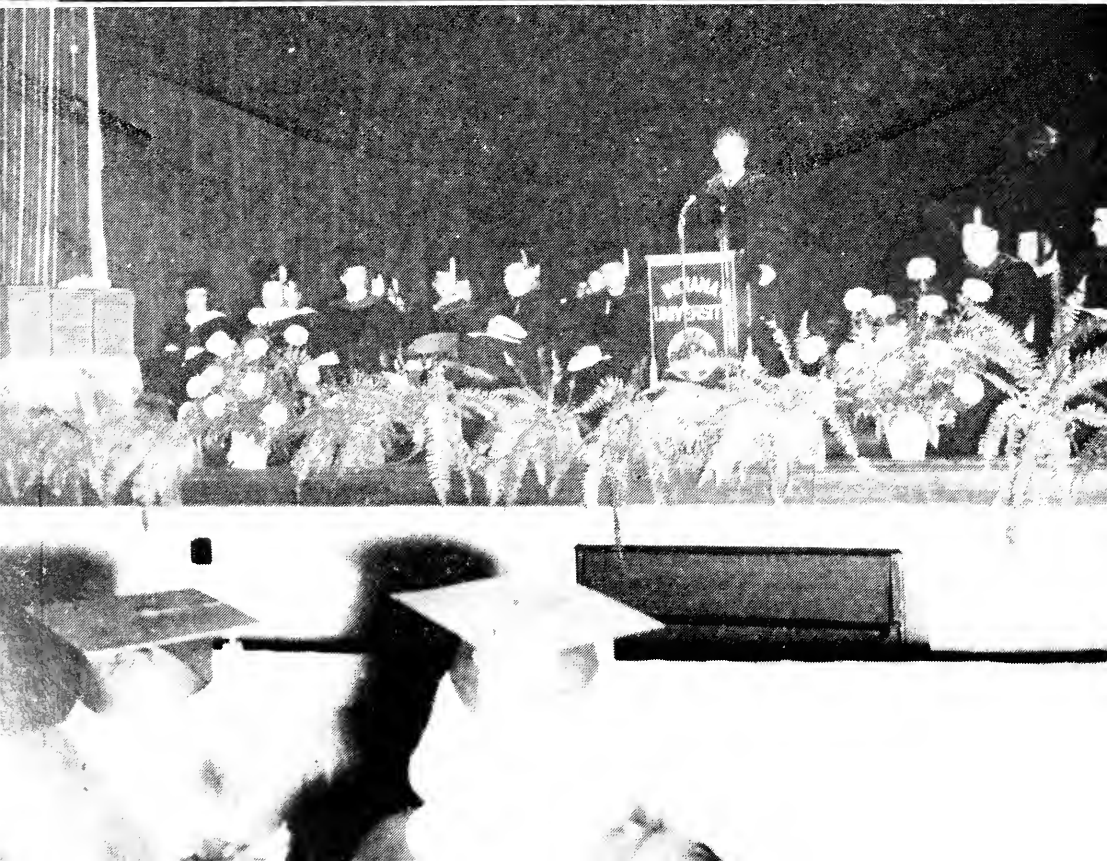

Introducing the deans of the several Schools was Dr. Ralph W. Cordier, Dean of Academic Affairs. The deans of the Schools then presented for graduation students in their respective Schools who completed the requirements for the degrees which were to be conferred. Lt. Col. Charles B. Stevenson, professor of military science, administered the oath to those who were awarded Army commissions.

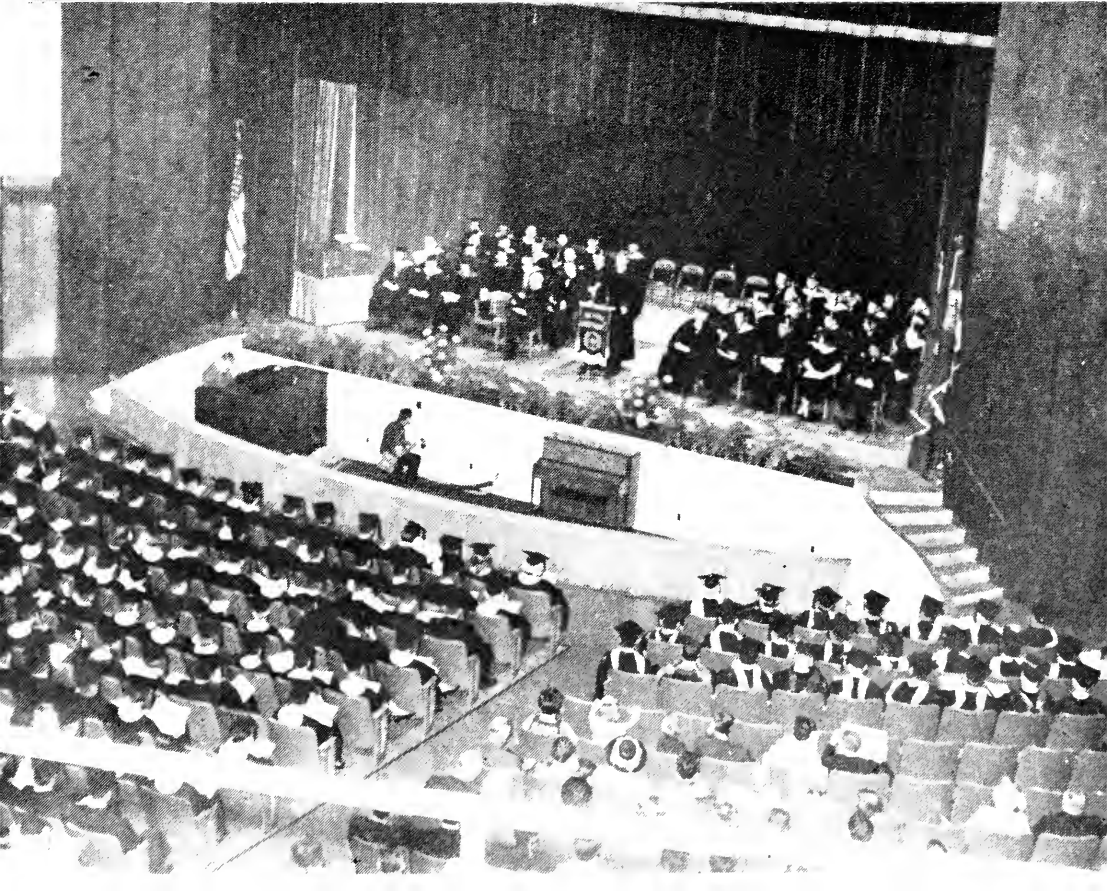

Receiving degrees were 32 students in the School of Arts and Sciences, 12 students in the School of Business, 110 in the School of Education, 17 in the School of Fine Arts, nine in the School of Home Economics, and 90 in the Graduate School.

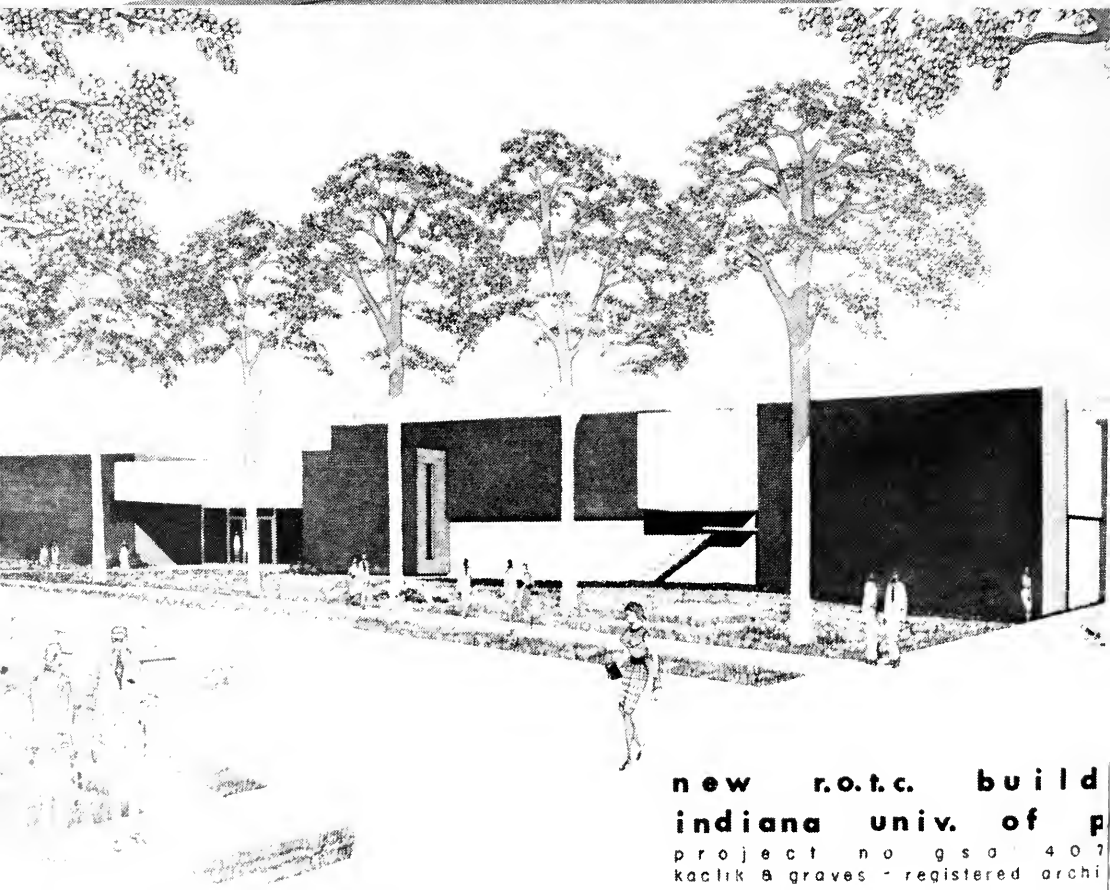

Leading the Academic procession was Marshall G. Flamm, vice president of the University Faculty Association.

Offering the Invocation and Benediction was Rev. R. Byron Crozier, pastor of the Graystone United Presbyterian Church of Indiana. Edgar Highberger, a graduate student at the University, was at the organ.

PURPOSES AND ACHIEVEMENTS OF THE ALL PENNSYLVANIA COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

The All Pennsylvania College Alumni Association of Washington, D. C. was conceived in 1948 and formally established in 1949 as an organization having a three-fold purpose: to foster the common objectives of the alumni of Pennsylvania's institutions of higher learning, to honor the Presidents of those institutions, and to accord recognition, by awarding a Citation, to an individual who has made an outstanding contribution toward the preservation and advancement of the American ideals of education.

THE COMMON OBJECTIVES of the alumni are to inspire and nurture a constructive interest in all of the colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, and, as expressed by Dr. M. Vashti Burr Whittington at the Citation Dinner in 1950, to promote and encourage "an educational system of which not only Pennsylvania, but the nation can be proud."

All alumni who reside or are employed in the Washington metropolitan area are, automatically, members of this Association. There are, however, no membership dues and no assessments. To defray expenses, the Association relies on the modest charge made for the annual Citation Luncheon.

The Commonwealth's colleges and universities have been helped in several ways by the Association. For example, it has encouraged the establishment of active alumni clubs of various colleges. The number of such clubs has grown from 16, in 1948, to more than 40. In addition, within just a few years following the 1948 dinner, the list of Official Representatives in the Association had increased from the original 18 to the present 70. For nearly 20 years the members of this group have cooperated whole-heartedly in advancing the Association's aims, despite the fact that about a third of the members are not natives of Pennsylvania.

IN HONORING THE PRESIDENTS of Pennsylvania's colleges and universities, the Association salutes those institutions. At the Citation Luncheons, the visiting Presidents are introduced, along with faculty members, administrative personnel, and General Alumni officers who have come from Pennsylvania for the occasion. There were 28 of these representatives in attendance at the dinner in 1948. Since then, the Association has been honored each year by the presence at the annual luncheon of Presidents and others from the college and university campuses. Since 1950, and in response to requests, the Presidents have been seated at tables reserved especially for their own alumni clubs.

THE CITATION of the Association is awarded annually to a graduate of a Pennsylvania degree-granting college or university or to one who is associated with education in Pennsylvania. Those who have received the Citation constitute a roster of eminent persons: Dr. Herbert L. Spencer, Dr. Francis B. Haas, Dr. Felix Morley, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, Hon. Edward Martin, Miss Mary B. McAndrew, Dr. Henning W. Prestis, Jr., Dr. Robert L. Johnson, Dr. Carl E. Seifert, Dr. Frank C. Laubach, Dr. William Wendell Cleland, Dr. Willis E. Pratt, Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, Dr. Millard Ellwood Gladfelter, Dr. Paul Swain Havens, Dr. Gaylord P. Harnwell, and Dr. John C. Warner.

THE CITATION LUNCHEON of the Association, held the first Saturday in February, at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C., is a gala affair with colorful banners and pennants decorating the dining room, with "that old college spirit" (multiplied by 70!), and with a meaningful message for all who attend.

The Twentieth-Anniversary Citation Luncheon which will be held on February 3, 1968, surely will be the gayest, greatest, and most enjoyable ever.

We would like very much to extend an invitation to all to our Twentieth Anniversary Citation Luncheon on Saturday, February 3, 1968 in the Blue Room of the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D. C.

The 1968 Citation will be awarded to Dr. David D. Henry, President of the University of Illinois. Born and educated in Pennsylvania, Dr. Henry's professional experiences have varied widely. His achievements have brought him national recognition, including membership on the Executive Committee of the Association of American Universities and Trustee of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Currently he serves as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Institute of International Education.

Scientific Study Given Boost By Research Corporation Grant

Indiana University of Pennsylvania recently received notification of a research grant amounting to $8365 to support a scientific investigation in the field of physics by Department of Physics faculty member Dr. Gary L. Buckwalter, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, President of the university.

This grant will be devoted to aiding Dr. Buckwalter's research program entitled "A Detector to Search for a Possible Diurnal Sidereal Fluctuation in Cosmic Muons of Intermediate Energy." The grant was made by the Research Corporation, a foundation headquartered in New York.

In making the grant, the corporation emphasized that Dr. Buckwalter will have complete freedom to make any changes in the emphasis or direction of the work as it progresses and as he deems such changes advisable. This research stems from unanswered questions associated with his doctoral dissertation.

According to Dr. Buckwalter, a registered fluctuation which is related to the stars as a source should yield information concerning the nature and origin of the primary cosmic rays, in turn providing information necessary to determine the nature of cosmic processes and the evolution of the universe.

Despite this potential importance, he feels that the scientific community has not given this sidereal (related to the stars) effect as much attention as it deserves. Dr. Buckwalter anticipates that this study will lead to additional research in this field to be conducted at the university.

Appointed to the Physics Department faculty at Indiana University in 1966, Dr. Buckwalter had previously taught physics at the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis for a total of seven years as both a naval officer and a civilian. His first assignment was at Pennsylvania State University.

Earning a bachelor of science degree in physics at Pennsylvania State University, Dr. Buckwalter completed both his master of science and doctor of philosophy degrees at Catholic University of America and then received a post-doctoral research fellowship to that same institution.

A U. S. Navy line officer for six years, Dr. Buckwalter completed his undergraduate education at Penn State through a Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) scholarship. He is now listed in Who's Who in American Education.

A member of Sigma Xi research fraternity, the American Physical Society and the American Association of Physics Teachers, Dr. Buckwalter has been awarded a National Science Foundation Science Faculty Fellowship and has published seven works related to physics and to his research interest.

Formerly associated on a consulting basis with Trident Engineering Associates in Annapolis, Dr. Buckwalter has in the past done practical research concerning high energy radiation facilities, lasers, radiation effects, acoustics and vacuum techniques for a rocket launch phase simulator and other projects.

News and Activities of the Units

PITTSBURGH-NORTH BOROUGH'S UNIT

The traditional "May Luncheon" of our Unit was held on Saturday, May 13, at 12:30, at the University Club, with an excellent attendance. The arrangements were in charge of Sara Graber-Niemeier, Adele Giamartini-Bauer, and Edna Dysters-Kappel.

Miss Catherine Taylor presided. The Invocation was pronounced by Lillie List-Herman.

Mrs. Madeline Brets, a teacher in the Sewickley School District, presented a very interesting illustrated travelogue from a recent summer spent in Iceland, the Baffin Bay Region and Labrador. The display of beautiful hand-work of all kinds, done by the natives, was most interesting to behold.

The Unit's busy and profitable year came to a close on June 15 with the annual picnic-buffet-luncheon at the lovely home of Catherine Taylor and her sister in Sewickley. The members of our Unit in that vicinity prepared the excellent food, and all enjoyed the fellowship and pleasant "chit-chat" of the final meeting until the fall rally on September 9.

At that time the annual business meeting and the election of officers will be held. The president's nominating committee consists of Mrs. Adele Bauer, Miss Mildred Pauch and Mrs. Fannie Baird.

Other tentative meetings for the coming season will be the benefit luncheon at the "Chuck Wagon" on November 18, and a luncheon and business meeting on the third Saturday in March at Kaufmann's Down-Town Dining Room. Miss Beatrice Jeffers will be in charge of the arrangements.

Cards received lately from Catherine in Lake Louise and Banff show she is enjoying a well-deserved holiday.

Lillie List-Herman, Publicity Chr.

THE PITTSBURGH UNIT

The Pittsburgh Unit, with Jeanine Du Fresne as our new president, has planned an interesting year for us beginning in September when we meet in the directors' room at the Pittsburgh National Bank at Fifth Avenue and Craig Street. For the past few years this has been our pleasant and convenient meeting place for our monthly council meetings since our membership became too large to meet in homes of our members.

A lovely Christmas dinner and program will take place in early December at the Women's City Club in the Penn Sheraton Hotel. Our gala spring dinner and program will be held in March at the College Club on Craig Street.

The annual benefit luncheon and card party will come in May at the Edgewood Club when the members won't have to worry about snow and ice covered roads as was our fate when this big event took place in February. Perhaps our planners also were thinking that May was a fine time for members and guests to appear in their colorful spring costumes—thus adding additional glamour to the scene.

The ocean, the lakes, and the great smooth open highways have been beckoning our members to come and enjoy the beautiful summer scenery. Many have succumbed to the lure of nature's charms.

Beatrice Fleming Harvey and husband flew to Hawaii in July. Mary Longwill and Hazel Stephens enjoyed a motor trip to Colorado. Agnes Barnard has been enjoying a Maine holiday with her folks. Jane Black and Thelma Harris spent some time in sunny Florida.

Jane Ray Carlin, Gladys Elcessor and Ethel Morrow report that the P.S.R.T.A. Recreo week on the campus of our beloved I.U.P. was delightful, the summer students in attendance were very courteous, and the I.U.P. staff most cooperative and gracious.

Sam Cunningham and his wife Ethel departed in late June for a European trip. Isabel Patterson Wucher is summering in California. Clara Lefkowitz Wakefield is enjoying the summer in Europe.

A few of our members spent some of their summer in the hospital. They were Armitage Lysle Coburn, Mildred Haas France, Audrey Smith Graham, Margaret Seibert McIntyre, Marie Scott Murray, and Emma Martinelli Nuzzo. We're happy to relate that all are improving and back home once again.

Two of our members have been in Negley House for some time—Mary Faloon and Betty Piper. They would be pleased to see any of their friends when they are in the vicinity of 550 South Negley Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15232.

Congratulations are in order for Florence Adams Whitfield who was awarded a substantial sum in a recent cross word puzzle contest conducted by the Pittsburgh Press. We are proud of our competent Florence.

CLASS OF 1912

The scene of our fifty-fifth anniversary of graduation from Indiana was vastly changed from that of five years ago.

No longer is the Alumni Luncheon held in the John Sutton Dining Room, but in the new Foster Hall; nor does the graduating class enter in procession, taking part in the luncheon program.

But the welcome from the University administration, the faculty and returning Alumni was just as warm as heretofore.

About twenty of our class came to lunch. We were happy to have our class president, Ernest McLaughlin (Sandy to us), in our circle after an absence of some years. We noted with sadness that five of our members who had been with us for our golden year were missing and would be with us no more.

Harry Nehrig and his wife came from Patton, Pa.; Reverend Robert Henry and Zula Miller Henry from Presbyterian Home in Oakmont; Mary MacClaran Haegel and husband from Baltimore, Md.; Thalma Smith Fickling and husband from Ohio; Ruby Maxwell, Leechburg; Ernest McLaughlin and friend from Shelocta, Pa.; Grace Craig Smith, Nell Houston Nippes, Twyla Opdyke Simpson and Florence Wallace, Indiana; Helen Brennan, Jean Lacock Russell and Adelaide Ramsay Clarke, from Pittsburgh.

On Friday night, when Helen and Adelaide returned at 11:00 P.M. from a three hour session of the Executive Council, we had a get-together in the small first floor lounge in Wahr Hall.

Florence Wallace, assisted by the Ficklings, entertained us at a delightful tea in her lovely home on Oakland Avenue Saturday afternoon.

We are proud of Florence. She is retiring from the faculty of the History Department of Indiana after thirty years of service. The University's Board of Trustees conferred upon her the title of Professor Emeritus, with an expression of gratitude for her long and devoted service to the University.

Florence has traveled throughout all parts of the world in the past twenty-five years and her plans for this year include another tour. We wish for her a healthy and happy retirement.

Illness of class members and their families prevented some from returning for the reunion, and some of those missing were already vacationing. Verne Martin McKee was wending her way to Turkey, from where she planned to make numerous side trips.

All classmates are welcome to attend the Instano 1912 luncheon at the Top of the Towers in Pittsburgh's Gateway on the first Saturday of November.

We wish for Dr. Pratt and the University continued success, and extend our gratitude for the hospitality we received from everyone, especially those who spent many extra hours in preparation for our comfort and entertainment.

It was a delightful occasion!

Esch was a guest and Mr. Maurice Zacur of the university geography department was the speaker. Hostesses were Mrs. Ella Reynolds Diefenderfer, Mrs. Eleanor Ward Everett, and Mrs. Myfawnoy Williams McNeill. Mrs. Betty Robison Gibson led group singing accompanied by Mrs. Leola Rowe Balik.

WASHINGTON, D. C. UNIT

The District of Columbia Unit of the Alumni Association spent an enjoyable evening June 3 having dinner and enjoying the races at Rosecroft Raceway.

The members and guests in attendance were: Miss Dorothy Ramale, her sister Lucille, and guest Margaret Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jarvie, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gienger, Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. J. Palmer.

Other items of interest concerning events relating to our Alumni—Ruth Estep Wagner returned to the campus in May for her 45th Reunion and attended the activities that usually accompany such nostalgic gatherings.

W. Ralph Kier (class of '41), the Principal of Yorktown High School in Arlington, Virginia, attended the Old Dominion Foundation Fellowship Program at University of Virginia from July 25 through July 29.

Grace O'Brien Lehman represented our Unit by attending the Alumni Workshop on the campus from August 4 to 6 and reported that a very interesting and profitable session was enjoyed by all who attended.

The activities of our President, Miss Dorothy Ramale, are many and varied. She embarked upon a six-week N.E.A. Educational Tour to Europe which took her from the Fiords and Scandinavian Capitals to the Mediterranean. She observed and absorbed much of the ethnic and cultural contrasts throughout her tour. Her last stop was Scotland before returning to Chicago. We expect to benefit from these many cultures and contrasts ourselves when she gets around to having all the color slides developed, and gives us a preview of the highlights of her trip!

Upon her return, Miss Ramale attended the S. E. District Alpha Delta Kappa Convention in Minneapolis, she being a reporter for the S. E. District.

With the advent of school reopening, many of us who teach are looking forward to a new year and the many challenges that each year of teaching brings to us! We are also looking forward to our next social activity on the agenda, which is a picnic at Palmer's residence in Falls Church, Virginia.

Second Annual Alumni Workshop . . .

needs of the Commonwealth. To actively strengthen the state-owned colleges and university, it will be necessary to substantially increase Commonwealth support to them. Among Commonwealth funds allocated to higher education, top priority must be given to this purpose. Improvement of existing facilities and substantial expansion of them is vital. Increase in faculty salaries, and fringe benefits which influence faculties, are equally critical. Non-instructional salaries and benefits also require substantial increase.

4. After the full needs of these 14 have been met, if additional Commonwealth funds are available and if deemed desirable, we would not oppose channeling such funds into private and semi-private institutions of higher learning for scholarships, fellowships, and capital construction, but not otherwise. Adopted September 17, 1966.

Mr. Rich and Mr. Samuel F. Furguele, Indiana's representative to ASCO and Director of Public Relations at the university, both emphasized that the common goal and biggest interest of ASCO is to support higher education, that the organization supports fully the fourteen state-owned institutions, that it could write and support bills for them, and that Indiana definitely should continue its membership.

Mr. Donald McPherson who will be a junior at Indiana in September, 1967 and is serving as Vice-President of The Pennsylvania Association of Student Government stated that students and alumni should become more involved in ASCO and that it is important for Indiana to work with ASCO. Dr. Nicholson commented that it is equally important that ASCO support us.

At the Saturday afternoon session The Annual Giving Fund was discussed and it was suggested that the first letter for the 1967-68 fund drive be sent in October, 1967 with a follow-up in January, 1968.

It was pointed out that the homecoming invitation card which has been used for a number of years would not be mailed since the homecoming day invitation and program were included on the back page of the June, 1967 Alumni News Bulletin. Arrangements will be made for an audit of The General Alumni Association accounts sometime in the near future.

Dr. Nicholson stated that the McManus and Weyandt Hall Fountains will be dedicated on Homecoming Day, October 7, 1967. Recognition will be given to both but the dedication will be at the McManus Fountain.

Dr. and Mrs. Pratt joined the workshop group for dinner in the private dining room in Foster Hall on Friday evening, August 4, after which the group attended the Summer Theater Guild play, "Absence of a Cello." The banquet on Saturday evening, August 5, was also held in the private dining room. Mrs. Ethel Grace O'Neal Lehman was honored with a birthday cake from her husband, H. Graham Lehman, who had joined her at the workshop in 1966. After dinner the group returned to the lounge in Stewart Hall and were entertained with folk songs by Miss Dorothy Lingenfelter, a member of the university faculty.

The final session of the workshop which took the form of a summary meeting was held Sunday afternoon and was followed by a concluding tea.

Second Annual Alumni Workshop Held on Indiana University Campus

The second annual workshop of The General Alumni Association of Indiana University of Pennsylvania was held on the university campus August 4 to August 6, 1967 under the codirection of Dr. Arthur F. Nicholson, Dean, School of Continuing and Non-resident Education, and Mary L. Esch, Executive Secretary of The General Alumni Association. Persons attending came from western Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, and Maryland. Participants were housed in Stewart Hall and meetings were held in the lounge of that dormitory.

Two items in which the alumni association is vitally interested were discussed: (1) The University Foundation and (2) The Association of State College Organizations (ASCO).

Dr. Charles D. Leach, Director of Development at the university, discussed the recently approved University Foundation, its purposes, and what it can do for the university. His report appears in this bulletin under the caption "Board Approves University Foundation." Control of the University Foundation will be vested in a twelve member Board of Directors, three of whom will be alumni of the university.

Mr. Donald Rich, President of Communication Services, Inc., Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, discussed ASCO and its purposes. ASCO is an outgrowth of the Council of Alumni Associations of Pennsylvania State Colleges. It was founded in September, 1965 out of a realization that a single united voice was necessary if the thirteen state-owned institutions and Indiana University of Pennsylvania were to find their proper place in the reorganization of the program for higher education in Pennsylvania. Its membership includes representatives from five segments of the fourteen state-owned institutions: namely faculties, trustees, students, presidents, and alumni.

The Association of State College Organizations specifically supports the following proposals:

1. A single center of responsibility for higher education is needed. The existing State Board of Education and the Council of Higher Education should be utilized, but it is imperative that a separate and adequate staff, independent of the DPI, be supplied immediately for their use.
